Baden-Powell as Sherlock Holmes. Of Colonel Baden-Powell, M.A P. tells interesting stories. Riding across as open grass plain in Matabeleland, he noticed that the grass had been recently trodden down. Following up the track, he soon found that it was the 'spoor' of several women and boys, going in the direction of the enemy. A tell-tale leaf, which he saw lying a few yards off the track, whereas there were no trees for miles—convinced him that the party had come from a village some lo miles distant, where trees with leares of this kind grow. The leaf was damp, and smelt of native beer. guessed, therefore, that women and boys, according to their custom, had been carrying pots of native beer on their heads, and that the mouths of the pots had been stopped with bunches of leaves. That it was lying ten yards off the track showed to DEPARTURE OF THE 2ND SYDNEY | the military Sherlock Holmes that a wind had been blowing at the time it fell. was then nearly 7 in the morning, and there was no wind, but there had been a time he could reach them they would be him a favourable chance of reconnectring their position. He accordingly followed the women's tracks, found the enemy as he supposed, made his observations, and got away with valuable information without any difficulty.
